Words from the Principal...

Constitution of a Cell to monitor the research activities of the teachers and the students in a higher education institute is highly warranted. Formation of the Research Monitoring Cell in Sonapur College is a step forward in this regards. The RMC is constituted with the objective to encourage the teachers to take up research, to procure fund for research and to maintain a research ambience within and around the college. The Bulletin of the Research Monitoring Cell is going to be published to keep the stakeholders and the society updated about their activities.

Higher education theorists and practitioners claim that institutional research is essential for effective decision making in colleges and universities. The institutional research is an important contribution for institutional decision making process. The experts have recommended ways to achieve the desired goals in decision making and to make the institutional research mandatory to confront the challenges of higher education.

Sonapur College, a pioneer higher education institute has excelled in intellectual growth in the greater Dimoria region. Not only in disseminating knowledge in the area, the college has been constructing the ethos of community belongingness through institutional research and participation. The teacher's community is constantly engaged in improvising their skills through active research. They are publishing the research findings in the reputed research journals, and also participating in the seminars and symposiums at national and international levels. Not only are the teachers, the students also are encouraged to take part in the research and community participation. The publication of the "Budding Scholars", a students' research journal of this college is worth mentioning in this regards.

The RMC is continuously engaged in reviewing the research proposals submitted by the teachers and forwarding the same to the funding agencies for approval. The RMC has to play a pivotal role in developing and in maintaining the research environment in the college in true sense.

Hope, this RMC Bulletin will certainly bring the desired inputs in this regards and the teachers will be instrumental in the sustenance of the true research culture and environment.

I express my heartfelt thanks to all the members associated in publishing the bulletin and also to the teachers for making the effort successful.

Date: 17/10/2014
